Where KMU stands, and why now

KMU has spent 25+ years becoming the largest player in its field in Malaysia — almost entirely on the strength of its work and its relationships. That was the right priority. Three things have now converged:

1 · The materials no longer match the company

The website and company profile booklets are outdated. When KMU walks into a government or corporate tender, the documents in the room understate the business behind them.

2 · Recognition without identity

The industry knows KMU. What's missing is the "when I see this, I think of KMU" effect — a distinct visual and verbal identity that separates KMU from every other contractor in the tender stack.

3 · A story that deserves a bigger audience

KMU's work — much of it underground and invisible — delivers clean water and critical infrastructure to society. Almost nobody outside the industry understands this. That is an unclaimed leadership position.

What this is (and isn't)

This is not a from-scratch rebrand that throws away 25 years of equity. It is a brand alignment and elevation programme: one identity, applied consistently from the tender document to the email signature to the site hoarding — in Malaysia, cascading down to PT KMU in Indonesia. The benchmark KMU named is Gamuda — the right reference, not to imitate, but as proof that a construction group with a disciplined brand gets treated differently in the room.

THE PROGRAMME AT A GLANCE

Five objectives, five phases, one identity

#	Objective	How the programme delivers it
1	Win-ready tender materials	Corporate profile + capability statement rebuilt to Gamuda-tier standard (Phases 2, 4)
2	A unique, ownable identity	Positioning, refined visual identity, verbal identity and tagline (Phases 1, 2)
3	Organisation-wide alignment	Brand Playbook + internal rollout so every department and PT KMU reproduce the brand correctly (Phases 2, 5)
4	Show the invisible work	Professional underground/site photography that makes hard-to-shoot work look like national infrastructure (Phase 3)
5	Prove it moved the needle	Internal + external brand perception baseline, 6-month re-measure, share-of-voice snapshot (Phase 5)

THE FIVE PHASES — EACH GATED BY YOUR SIGN-OFF · PAUSE-FRIENDLY · NO OBLIGATION BEYOND THE CURRENT PHASE

Phase	Title	Weeks
1	Brand Discovery & Strategy	1–4
2	Visual Identity & Brand Playbook	5–9
3	Photography & Image Library	8–11
4	Corporate Profile & Tender Kit	11–15
5	Rollout, Internal Launch & Measurement	15–18
	Total programme	~18 weeks

Phase 3 runs partly in parallel with Phase 2 — the shoot is planned once visual direction is locked, so photography lands just in time to populate the profile in Phase 4. Total programme budget RM80,000 ex-SST, subject to change once the final scope is confirmed.

Why phased beats one big commitment

A single RM80K decision is a board conversation. Five sequenced phases — each with its own deliverables, sign-off, and invoice — is a series of operational decisions. You approve the strategy before we design, approve the identity before we produce, and can pause between phases without losing anything already delivered.

The team — five people, end to end

2 brand strategists (Toggle Solutions) own discovery, positioning, messaging, and measurement. 1 creative director + 2 creatives (Code of Origin) own identity design, the playbook, and production — including the in-house production team for site photography. Code of Origin's Indonesia market experience covers the PT KMU cascade.

PHASE DETAIL · 1 OF 2

Phases 1–3 — strategy, identity, imagery

Phase 1 · Brand Discovery & Strategy

Weeks 1–4

The thinking everything else stands on. We study the internal and external data and repaint the KMU persona before a single pixel is designed.

- Kickoff workshop + stakeholder interviews (up to 5: leadership, tender/BD team, PT KMU representative)
- Audit of all current materials — website, profile booklets, decks, signage, templates
- Benchmark scan: Gamuda-tier corporate brands + regional infrastructure peers (MY + ID)
- Brand architecture: how KMU Malaysia and PT KMU Indonesia relate visually and verbally

You receive: Brand Strategy Blueprint (positioning, persona, audience map) + messaging house (brand story, 3 message pillars, elevator pitch, boilerplates, 3 tagline directions). GATE: strategy sign-off before Phase 2

Phase 2 · Visual Identity & Brand Playbook

Weeks 5–9

The identity itself, plus the operating manual that keeps every department — and any future vendor — on the same page.

- Identity refresh: logo refinement (refine, not replace — 25 years of recognition is an asset), colour system, typography, graphic language · 2 design directions, 2 revision rounds
- Applications: letterhead & stationery, email signature system, PowerPoint/tender deck template, site hoarding & signage direction, vehicle/PPE livery direction, social profile kit

You receive: KMU Brand Playbook (~40–60 pages — usage rules any internal team or external agency can follow without us) + master asset pack with all source files. GATE: identity sign-off before production

Phase 3 · Photography & Image Library

Weeks 8–11

Underground work is genuinely hard to shoot — which is exactly why professionally-shot underground work is a differentiator nobody else in the field has.

- Pre-production: shot list mapped to profile & website needs, site recce, safety & access coordination with KMU site teams
- 2 shoot days on active sites (underground works, machinery, scale, teams in action) + 1 day corporate — leadership portraits, office, culture

You receive: 60–80 retouched, rights-cleared images, tagged and organised as a reusable library for tenders, website, social, and PR. GATE: library accepted before Phase 4 layout

Every phase ends with something you own and can use immediately. Stop after Phase 1 and you still hold a complete brand strategy. Stop after Phase 3 and you hold an identity, a playbook, and an image library any designer can execute against.

PHASE DETAIL · 2 OF 2 + TIMELINE

Phases 4–5 — the payoff, then the proof

Phase 4 · Corporate Profile & Tender Kit

Weeks 11–15

The commercial payoff: the documents KMU actually takes into tenders, rebuilt on the new identity and the new imagery.

- Corporate profile booklet (24–32 pages) — print-ready + interactive digital PDF, English master
- Capability statement (4 pages) — the fast-scan version for tender annexes and first meetings
- Project case-study sheets (up to 6) — modular, assembled per tender
- Tender document cover system (covers, dividers, spine) + print management (print costs at cost, pass-through)

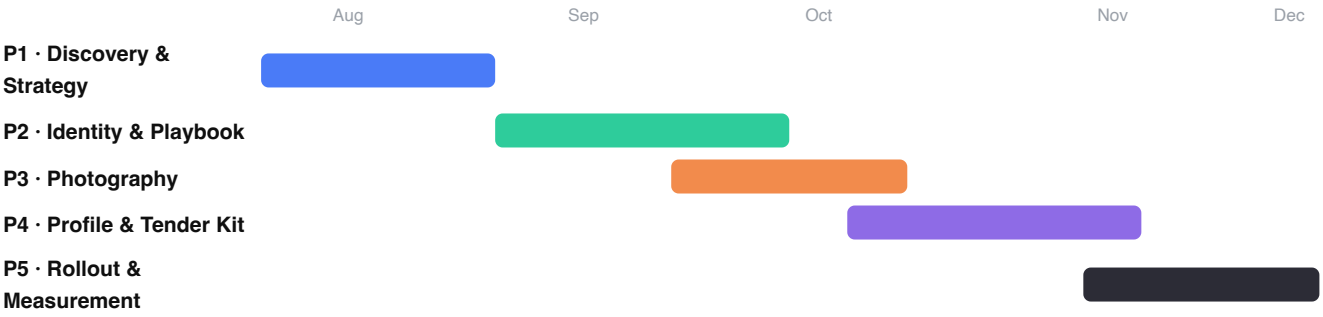

Phase 5 · Rollout, Internal Launch & Measurement

Weeks 15–18

A rebrand that stays in a PDF changes nothing. This phase pushes the brand into daily use — then proves what it did.

- Internal launch kit — all-staff announcement materials, brand briefing workshop, email signature deployment pack
- External launch assets — LinkedIn/website announcement set, press-release draft
- Brand perception measurement — internal + external baseline survey and share-of-voice snapshot at launch, plus a 6-month re-measure so leadership sees before/after in numbers
- 90-day light-touch brand QA on the first assets KMU teams produce themselves

PROGRAMME TIMELINE — INDICATIVE, KICKOFF FIRST WEEK OF AUGUST 2026

Each column = 1 week (18 weeks total). Phase 3 overlaps Phase 2 by design; Phase 4 begins once the image library is accepted.

Full programme completes early December 2026 — KMU walks into the next tender batch fully rebranded. The 6-month perception re-measure lands around June 2027, giving leadership a numbers-based answer to "what did the rebranding do for us?"
